Title: Managing a Difficult Patient Encounter: A Self-Reflective Practice

Introduction: During my recent shift in the surgical ward, I was assigned to care for Mr. Smith, a 65-year-old patient recovering from abdominal surgery. On the second day post-operation, Mr. Smith became increasingly agitated and verbally disruptive, refusing medication and demanding to speak with the surgeon immediately. This experience challenged my communication skills and emotional resilience, prompting me to reflect deeply on my practice.

Context Description: Mr. Smith's agitation seemed to stem from discomfort and anxiety about his recovery process. Despite my attempts to reassure him and explain his care plan, his behavior escalated. I felt overwhelmed and uncertain about how to de-escalate the situation effectively.

Feelings and Reactions: Initially, I felt frustrated and anxious, worried about maintaining safety and professionalism. I also experienced self-doubt, questioning whether I handled the situation appropriately. My emotional response included feelings of helplessness, which I recognized as an area needing improvement.

Analysis: Upon reflection, I realized that my communication style may have lacked empathy, which could have contributed to Mr. Smith's agitation. I noticed that I focused primarily on providing factual information rather than actively listening to his concerns. Additionally, I did not employ de-escalation techniques that might have calmed the situation. Furthermore, I acknowledged my emotional response and understood that managing personal feelings is essential in high-pressure situations. Recognizing the importance of maintaining professionalism while showing empathy is vital for effective patient-centered care.

Learning Points: From this experience, I learned:

- The importance of active listening and validating patient feelings. The need to employ de-escalation techniques such as calm tone, open body language, and giving patients space to express themselves. That managing my emotional responses can positively influence patient interactions. The value of seeking guidance from colleagues or supervisors when faced with challenging situations. Action Plan for Future Practice: To improve my approach, I will: Attend communication skills workshops focusing on conflict resolution. Practice mindfulness and emotional regulation techniques to stay calm under pressure. Develop a checklist of de-escalation strategies to recall during difficult encounters.
